The Old Capital

Nobel Prize-winner for Literature 1968, Kawabata draws on his experiences as a student in the sixties to those completed right before his untimely death in 2001. In nearly one hundred poems—the majority published in English for the first time—Kawabata reveals the loneliness and alienation he experienced as a young man. From the beauty of natural landscapes to the isolation of city life, from the beauty of nature to the beauty of the human heart, from a student in the sixties to those completed right before his untimely death in 2001—Kawabata’s poems reflect the profound and often melancholy experiences of his life.
